

ABSTRACT

--A glass cutting table to divide a glass plate, with a glass plate support in the form of a table top and a cutting bridge, on which a cutting tool is mounted, which can be moved along the support. A drive and guide unit for the cutting bridge is located at a distance underneath the table top and is attached to the base frame of the glass cutting table independently of the table top. The guide and drive unit are also offset to the inside of the outer lengthwise edges of the table top, and the table top may be tilted independently of the guide and drive unit.--